Leonore Taylor – Editor-in-Chief, Guardian Australia

Leonore Taylor has been the editor-in-chief for six years and has been with Guardian Australia since its launch in May 2013, when she joined as political editor. Leonore has been honoured with two Walkley Awards and has twice won the Paul Lyneham Award for excellence in press gallery journalism. She is a formidable commentator on the Australian political landscape and has long been a regular guest on radio and television current affairs programs, including the ABC's Insiders.
